

Buying? Selling? Renovating?

Consider this about your grout & tile!

Buying a new home? Selling your old? Renovating your house or office building? If so, you need to think about your floor. Every room has its own set of needs, and flooring is a common factor in all.

Tile flooring is very popular today. However, while it's beautiful when first installed, over time, the floor's grout becomes a little nasty. Cleaning attempts become tiresome. Tile and stone owners concede defeat: they'd rather rip up the floor than try another cleaning product.

"It's usually not the tile that gives a homeowner grief, it's the grout!" says Sue Ostrowski of Enviro Clean Grout & Stone Care Inc. (Enviro Clean). "We often hear our customers say that their ceramic or stone floors are still beautiful, but the grout in some areas conquers them."

Enviro Clean understands this flooring complication. Before you rip up that floor, however, call us for a free consultation. Save time and money for other projects, and have your floor transformed within days. It just makes sense to re-new rather than rip out.

New home owners aren't immune to this problem either. Ostrowski says people often tell her that the tile installer told them a sealer was not necessary, or that they personally don't think the grout was sealed. "Basically, they didn't know they had to!" Without a proper sealant and aftercare, dirt and liquids will penetrate the grout, stains set in, and the floor quickly loses its new, clean and luxurious appearance.

If you're not sure if your new floors are sealed, consider calling Enviro Clean to learn about their colour sealers. This product is a revolutionary. It's known by contractors worldwide as the premium solution for transforming the look of old and dirty grout back to new again. Its advanced water-based formula quickly bonds to grout lines to create an even and uniform colour and appearance while locking out future stains.

Benefits of Enviro Clean's colour sealers:

- Rejuvenate your grout from nasty to new
- Change your grout colour from an incorrect colour to a colour that works with the tile or room theme
- Create a uniform appearance, by removing the highs and lows of a newly installed floor and protect new grout from discoloration, keep it new looking and reduce over all maintenance

"You'll definitely have less of a headache later if you seal it now," explains Ostrowski. "We can come in and seal new grout, and save you half the cleaning and sealing bill later."

Marble, travertine and limestone are a beautiful investment and require special maintenance. Over time, floor tiles become flawed with scratches, etch marks, or the polish fades. Just like carpet and hardwood floors, a professional needs to be called to rejuvenate the floor.

Enviro Clean specializes in stone. We use a wet, non-chemical method of grinding to remove lippage, scratches and etch marks. Depending on the floor, the final step may include a seal or polish. We do not use products that can damage a floor like waxes or crystallization. Our floor grinding and polishing techniques are the same procedures used by other stone professionals for centuries—with outstanding results.

As part of their exceptional customer service, Enviro Clean also educates their clients on how to maintain their floors. Really, they give the homeowner a chance to fall in love with their floors again.
